

2024 Cymru Wales Awards

Research Award 2024

This award recognises the significant amount of professional work that is carried out at investigatory stages of projects in industry, or through philanthropic activities. Your submission should detail how your research stands as an exemplary piece of work and how it contributes to the betterment of the Highways and Transportation industry. This is a broad topic, and the subjects are likely to be diverse, but we welcome the opportunity to recognise the professional contribution to society from our members whilst carrying out research.

This award looks to recognise an outstanding piece of research in the highways and transportation sector and looks to improve the industry by addressing a specific problem. The research project should have outlined clear targets, with structured research methods and be a unique piece of work that has been well communicated to the wider sector.
